Sir:

1/ I have the honor to transmit a copy in translation of the text of a Treaty for the Suppression of Smuggling between Greece and Turkey, signed at Ankara on January 15, 1937, and ratified by the Grand National Assembly on May 5, 1937. The text of this treaty, which was published in OFFICIAL GAZETTE No. 3603 of May 13, 1937, has only just become available in French.

The Department will observe that the treaty deals in detail not only with commodities, the importation of which into the two countries is prohibited, but also with

TRANSLATION

Text of a Treaty for the Suppression of Smuggling between Greece and Turkey, signed at Ankara on January 15, 1937, ratified on May 5, 1937.

Article 1. Each of the high contracting parties agree to take, without distinction in regard to the nationality of offenders, the measures proper to prevent individuals or bands of persons, whose activity is directed against the other contracting party, from engaging in smuggling within its territory. They agree also to exchange any information which may come to them concerning such activity.

This exchange of information will be made directly between the posts designated in the Protocol annexed to the present Convention. The high contracting parties will inform each other immediately of any change of location or of the creation of a new post.

This information will deal particularly with the identity of smugglers, their zone of activity, the articles in which they traffic, the means of transport employed and the type of the latter.

Article 2. The high contracting parties agree to assist each other mutually to assure the seizure of vessels which have taken to the high seas after having been pursued in conformity with their respective laws within the territorial waters of one of them. If the high contracting party which pursues the smuggler deems it necessary to request the assistance of the other for his arrest, it will notify the other by means of signals agreed upon and mentioned in the Protocol annexed to the present Convention.

Seized vessels, together with their crews and cargoes, will be turned over to the authorities of the high contracting party into whose territorial waters they fled.

Article 3. Each of the high contracting parties undertakes not to grant permission for the exportation of any merchandise destined for the territory of the other provided that the importation of such merchandise is prohibited or subjected to a monopoly within the territory of the latter. The high contracting parties likewise agree to keep each other informed concerning demands of this nature which may have been made for such merchandise destined either for the territory of one or the other or for that of a third neighbor state in the Aegean Sea.

A list of articles the importation of which is prohibited or subjected to a monopoly by either of the high contracting parties is annexed to the present Convention (Annex 1).

The high contracting parties will notify each other at the appropriate moment of any change which should be made in this list.

Article 4. The high contracting parties agree to exchange, every ten days, certified lists prepared by the customs authorities of the port of exit of vessels transporting from the ports of the Aegean Sea to the neighboring Greek islands, and from those islands to the above-mentioned ports, merchandise which has been passed by the customs, and will mention at the same time the name of the captain of the vessel, its tonnage and the nature of its cargo.

Article 5. The high contracting parties agree to make on the bill of health of vessels trading between Turkish ports of the Aegean Sea and the Greek Islands or vice versa a brief notation concerning the cargo carried on the manifest if the vessel is loaded.

Should the vessel leave a port without cargo, mention of this fact will likewise be made on the bill of health.

Article 6. The present Convention will be ratified and ratifications will be exchanged at Athens as soon as possible. It will last for one year and will enter into force one month after the high contracting parties will have exchanged notices of ratification. If it has not been denounced three months before the expiration of this period, it will be considered as having been renewed for an additional period of one year.

In witness of which the plenipotentiaries have signed the present Convention.

Done at Ankara in duplicate, January 15, 1937.

PROTOCOL OF SIGNATURE

After signing the Convention bearing today's date, the high contracting parties have decided to explain in greater detail the provisions of certain clauses in the following manner:

With

With reference to Article 1: Information will be exchanged between the following authorities:

Turkish authorities: The commandant general of the customs protection service at Ankara; The director General of the customs protection service at Istanbul; the commandant of the customs protection service of the Aegean Sea at Izmir; The assistant director of the commandant of the customs protection service at Karagaç-Edirné; The section chief of the commandant of the customs protection service at Enez; The commandant of the customs protection service at Ayvalik; The commandant of the customs protection service at Çeşme; The commandant of the customs protection service at Kusadasi; The commandant of the customs protection service at Karine; The section chief of the commandant of the customs protection service at Uzun-Koprü (See map);

Greek authorities: Department of contraband prevention of the Ministry of Finance, Athens, Section of the Ministry of Finance, 116 Kolokotronis Street, Piraeus; The Director of customs at Dikea; The Director of customs at Nea Orestias; The Director of customs at Pythion; The Director of Customs at Alexandropolis; The Director of customs at Mitylène; The Director of customs at Chios (Sakiz); The Director of Customs at Vathy (Samos); The Director of customs at Figani (Samos).

A map showing the localities where subordinate authorities are established and among whom information will be exchanged as provided is annexed to the present Convention.

The high contracting parties in order to exchange the above-mentioned information will avail themselves of the appropriate means and will employ French in their correspondence.

Should they employ the telegraph, they will use a code to be mutually agreed upon, copies of which will be furnished the authorities mentioned above. This code will be changed every six months. The expenses incidental to the printing of the said code will be divided equally between the high contracting parties.

Should the high contracting parties judge it expedient to employ couriers for the transmission of information, these shall be chosen either from the personnel of the customs service or from that of the commandant of the customs protection service. These couriers will travel in civilian dress. The high contracting parties will furnish these couriers with cards of identity conforming to the attached model (A).

The high contracting parties will exchange duplicates of all cards of identity and will not deliver the originals to their couriers until they have received notice of the receipt of the duplicates by the other contracting party.

The couriers of one of the high contracting parties, who travel in the country of the other, shall be furnished, in addition to their cards of identity, with a traveling permit conforming to the attached model (B) and delivered by one of the above-mentioned authorities.

Couriers using means of travel other than public conveyances should arrive within the jurisdiction of the other party before sunset.

The use of couriers is not permitted except for the transmission of communications or documents duly signed and sealed by the above-mentioned authorities.

For the duration of their stay within the territory of the other high contracting party couriers will be at the disposal of the authority to whom they have been sent and will obtain from that authority leave to return. The said authority will stamp on the official orders a visa showing the dates of arrival and departure of the courier.

Any withdrawal of a card of identity by one of the high contracting parties should be immediately brought to the attention of the other.

With respect to Article 2: Signals of identification or for assistance shall be made as follows:

During the day: a small flag of the State hoisted at the mainmast and bearing the letters A. M. in the international signal Code.

At night: three lights close together hoisted to the mainmast; the top two to be green and the bottom light to be red.

Rockets: Two green and one red at one minute intervals.

The authorities receiving these signals will acknowledge their receipt by repeating the signal received.

Done at Ankara, in duplicate, January 15, 1937.
